

SPEECH & LANGUAGE HOMEWORK

Dear Parent,

The following activities were created for practice of speech and language goals using toys for young children. Activities include materials and suggested directions. All activities can be modified depending on the needs of your child. Please don't hesitate to ask your child's therapist for other suggestions or help modifying activities/materials. While most activities may seem like "play", they are fostering great expressive and receptive language with your little one! Activities are very structured, feel free to offer less structure as you see fit. It's important to note there is no "right way" to play, these are simply ideas to encourage language development. Anytime your child imitates your play be sure to clap and reward them to encourage them to continue. Happy playing!
